1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claims 1 and 4 are misdescriptive in reciting the superfluous language “,but ...to,” (lines 2-3) since “comprising” and “including” make the ingredients open-ended. Cancellation of this language is required.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weiss et al (cols. 2, 3 and 5) in view of Poarch (col. 3, line 10) or Bolin et al (col. 4, lines 3-40). Weiss et al discloses making a sausage product including mixing encapsulated citric acid with ground meat and spices to form a sausage blend which is then stuffed into a casing, tied and incubated. It would have been obvious to include vinegar in the sausage blend of Weiss et al to aid in reducing pH and coagulating protein since it is well known to add vinegar to a sausage blend for such a purpose, as evidenced by either secondary reference. Further, it would have been obvious to extrude the sausage blend into the casing in Weiss et al, link a plurality of encased sausages and then place in a smokehouse since such a sausage making procedure is old, as evidenced by Bolin et al. The use of powdered vinegar as opposed to liquid vinegar does not provide any unexpected results and is not deemed to be critical.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Holdren et al shows making sausage products including encapsulated citric acid.
